A NOVEL

As to the wretched party left behind, it could scarcely be said which of the three, who were completely rational, was suffering most: Captain Wentworth, Anne, or Charles, who, really a very affectionate brother, hung over Louisa with sobs of grief, and could only turn his eyes from one sister, to see the other in a state as insensible, or to witness the hysterical agitations of his wife, calling on him for help which he could not give.

'Anne, Anne,' cried Charles, 'What is to be done next? What, in heaven's name, is to be done next?'

Captain Wentworth's eyes were also turned towards her.

'Had not she better be carried to the inn? Yes, I am sure: carry her gently to the inn.'

'Yes, yes, to the inn,' repeated Captain Wentworth, comparatively collected, and eager to be doing something. 'I will carry her myself. Musgrove, take care of the others.'

By this time the report of the accident had spread among the workmen and boatmen about the Cobb, and many were collected near them, to be useful if wanted, at any rate, to enjoy the sight of a dead young lady, nay, two dead young ladies, for it proved twice as fine as the first report. To some of the best-looking of these good people Henrietta was consigned, for, though partially revived, she was quite helpless; and in this manner, Anne walking by her side, and Charles attending to his wife, they set forward, treading back with feelings unutterable, the ground, which so lately, so very lately, and so light of heart, they had passed along.

3. Complete the text with appropriate words from the list. Change adjectives into adverbs where necessary.

M Dufoy was a dentist, who with his trimmed black beard and aviator-style spectacles wasreminiscent of Gerry Adams.

I was aware that a rite of passage of au pairing was the father of the family forcing his attentions on the hired help, and was..... the day Madame, a Iworked out, however, that it wasn't me he was interested in but theIrish girl who was au-pairing for a family down the road. It was she, not I, who ended up being lunged at in the BMW.

Yet M Dufoy and I had other dramas. The Dufoy's had a, grey-haired cook, named, Reine. On her day off I had to prepare M Dufoy's lunch. Asked for salade niçoise, I was – we hadn't had this in Yorkshire – andrang Reine for explication. 'Pas de problème,' she declared, listing the ingredients, 'tomatoes, tuna, anchovies, lettuce, capers, spring onions, olives and an egg.'

.....I threw the whole lot together and carried itinto the dining room.

M Dufoy peeredinto the bowl. 'The egg,' he said eventually, stirring a fork amid themess, 'is supposed to be cooked.'

A REVIEW

WHEN Henry VIII's Lord Chancellor, Cardinal Wolsey, toured the realm in the 16th century, he praised the hospitality of the dozens of country houses in which he stayed.

A few hundred years later - in 1981 - an organisation called Wolsey Lodges was formed, aimed at providing travellers withaccommodation in.....surroundings.

Upmarket B&B, in other words.

It's aorganisation, but I didn't know..... howuntil I rang Jean Talbot and asked if I could stay a Sunday night at her home near Winchester.

'Would you like something to eat when you arrive?' she asked, to which the answer was that aglass of wine and a ham sandwich would be perfect.

'No, that won't be necessary,' I lied.

'Well, why don't you have a glass of wine and a sandwich?' she said. 'Look forward to seeing you.' I got thereafter 9pm. Mrs Talbot greeted me in theflagstoned hall that dates back to 1492, and I noticed that there was a baby grand piano in one corner and arocking horse in another. She showed me into the drawing room and suggested I sat next to the roaring fire. It was all.....

Your friend wants some advice on how to choose a few good B&Bs in England. You give him some examples of places where you had good experience. Tell them about the B&Bs, what they look like on the inside and the outside, what kind of people are running them, how you are received in these places (a little drink? A cup of tea?...), what the rooms are like (style, up-to-date + examples if possible).

Make sure you use as many adjectives and adverbs as possible . (At least 15 adjectives and 5 adverbs). If you use irregular forms next to irregular ones, you will be marked higher.

You may choose if you write your e-mail in the present or the past. Again, if you include past tenses your marks will be higher. However, if you choose that option, you will not be demarked.

IMPORTANT for teachers: you should add the levels to help you with the evaluation.

OPTION: (debatable): you could also add the levels for the pupils. My suggestion:

- ELEMENTARY Level 1 (= elementair)
- ELEMENTARY level 2 (= verdieping)

- EXTRA : uitbreiding
